About

The NH EDies wants to recognize Henry Wilson Memorial School for their demonstration of promising practices and research based strategies that are propelling the school forward in a student-centered direction. At the heart of this is the strong community system exhibited in both the school and throughout Farmington and the surrounding communities. The school's focus on building positive relationships is shown in the student responsive culture and climate of the building, authentic interactions among teachers and students, and a powerful presence of parents and community members who support the school and learners.
