About

Travis is a NCSP, past president of NHASP, and practicing at Dover since 2006. He is an innovative thinker leading district initiatives in SEL, participating in a city-wide review of the mental health response, developing a strategic plan to address recent trends and barriers in accessing mental health services in the City of Dover, creating and implementing a critical incident response team and protocols, and serves as the district's MTSS Director. Travis is passionate, hardworking, and a true student-centered school psychologist. He has a remarkable ability to connect with students, families, and staff, creating an environment of trust and support.
