About

Joy Gobin of Lebanon High School has been awarded the NH ELO Network Lifetime Achievement Award for her exceptional contributions to the Extended Learning Opportunities (ELO) program. This is the first time the Network is giving an award in this category which speaks to Joy's gold standards. Joy has set a high bar within her school but has also led and mentored the western region of the state in best practices while also keeping a steadfast presence at the state level. Joy has facilitated over 200 students each year in earning credits through diverse experiences outside the traditional classroom setting, including internships, college courses, and specialized studies. Her efforts have not only elevated the school's ELO model to exemplary status within New Hampshire but also garnered national attention. Joy ensures each student's learning pathway is personalized, fostering an inclusive and supportive educational environment. As she approaches retirement, her legacy at Lebanon High School remains a testament to her life-changing work and commitment to student success.
