About

The NH Association for Supervision and Curriculum Development proudly recognizes Dr. Irving Richardson for the Excellence in Educational Leadership Award. Dr. Richardson's impact on public education in New Hampshire is evident in his multiple roles, from his professorship at Southern New Hampshire University to spearheading educator professional development at NEA-NH. A true embodiment of the NHASC mission, Dr. Richardson serves as a "catalyst for conversation and action," promoting scholarly dialogue and inspiring excellence in teaching. His extensive background, which spans roles as an elementary school teacher, principal, and consultant, allows him to mentor a wide array of the state's educators effectively. Few educators can match Dr. Richardson's positive influence on hundreds of teachers and administrators throughout the Granite State. His ability to inspire, guide, and innovate makes Dr. Irving Richardson a standout leader.
